

I Our logo

LOGO

Our logo is the primary expression of our identity. It should be used consistently across all applications to ensure recognition and clarity. While the mark itself is flexible, the way we apply it must remain precise.

The UKCEH logo represents one organisation. Sub-brands or alternate marks should not be created. Any proposals for new brands, logos or social media channels must be approved by the Communications & Engagement team.

TRANSLATIONS OF OUR NAME

Previously, we have used Welsh and French (Ghanian) versions our logos. This is no longer required as our new logo represents us all.

BREAKDOWN

Our logo symbol is built from three concentric rings of dots, scaling smaller towards the centre. Each ring represents one of our core research areas — land, water and air — reflecting how these systems connect and interact.

The pattern moves from complexity at the edges to focus at the centre, symbolising how UKCEH brings clarity to the natural world through science.

SET UP

Clearspace and minimum size ensure our logo is always legible and recognisable.

Clearspace protects it from visual noise, while minimum size guarantees it remains clear across print and digital applications.

Together, they safeguard the integrity of the logo in every context.

Clearspace: Clearspace is defined by the height of the H in the logo.

Minimum Size: The smallest our logo can appear is 30 pixels (digital) or 10mm (print) high.

POSITIONING

Positioning ensures the logo feels intentional and consistent across every application.

By aligning it to the grid and margins, and placing it in a fixed position within layouts, the logo becomes a clear anchor point.

This consistency strengthens recognition and avoids the impression of randomness or imbalance.

Alignment: Align the logo to the grid or margins so it sits cleanly within the composition.

Placement: Use the approved position (e.g. top-left / bottom-right) consistently across all layouts to anchor the design.

TAGLINE

Our tagline expresses our mission in a simple, direct way:
Our planet. Decoded.
It appears alongside the logo to reinforce our role as an organisation that unites disciplines, people and knowledge. Consistent use strengthens recognition and supports our brand voice.

CLEARSPACE & PLACEMENT

The tagline must always sit in a fixed relationship to the logo, with clearspace maintained around both elements. Positioning should follow the same grid and margin rules as the logo, ensuring the lock-up feels balanced and uncluttered.

Clearspace: Clearspace is defined by the height of the H in the logo.

STACKED VERSION

Where width is restricted — such as digital banners, narrow templates or small-scale applications — a stacked version of the tagline may be used. This alternative arrangement ensures legibility without compromising consistency.

Stacked Version

Clearspace: Clearspace is defined by the height of two dots from the outer ring.

COBRANDING

When our logo appears with a partner, both marks should have equal presence and space. They must remain separate, with a clear margin between them, and never combined into a single lock-up.

We can use the height of the 'H' from our logo as a guide to the space to leave between them.

WATCHOUTS

It is important to use our logo consistently across our brand. Here are some things to watch out for.

Don't stretch, compress or distort the logo or tagline.

Don't recolour either element outside of the approved palette.

Don't separate the workmark from the symbol in the same composition.

Don't place the logo on backgrounds that compromise legibility.

Don't crop the logo or use parts of it in isolation.

Don't add outlines, strokes or decorative elements or recreate either element in anyway.

Don't rotate or tilt the logo.

Don't separate the tagline from the logo when used as a lock-up.
